Special Antarctica Photographic Charter
with Mark Carwardine, Chris Packham & Paul Goldstein

28 November-10 December 2018 [14 days from £8,799 per person]

ANTARCTICA is arguably the last true wilderness left on Earth, and here's a wonderful chance to join a very special trip. Mark joins Paul Goldstein and Chris Packham on this incredible expedition cruise to visit prime sites along the Antarctic Peninsula and in the nearby South Shetland Islands, during the southern summer. They will include as much wildlife viewing as possible, with loads of time ashore and plenty of opportunity to enjoy the breathtaking scenery.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Travel on the exclusively chartered, extremely comfortable and safe, ice-strengthened polar adventure ship – the RCGS Resolute. This new vessel while boasting superb features and top of its class is still an adventure ship.
- Wonderfully varied Antarctic journey with superb wildlife watching in a spectacular setting of ice-choked waterways, glaciers, blue and white icebergs and rugged mountains.
- Spend considerably more time in Antarctica than most comparable trips.
- Enormous rookeries of gentoo, chinstrap and adélie penguins (lone emperor and macaroni penguins also possible).
- Early December is an exciting time to be there because not only are there long hours of daylight, but the ice is probably at its most beautiful.
- Fabulous close encounters with Weddell, crabeater, leopard, southern elephant and Antarctic fur seals.
- Wide variety of cetaceans likely, including: humpback, Antarctic minke and killer whales.

- Wandering, royal, black-browed and other albatrosses accompanying the ship.
- Exciting cruises in inflatable Zodiacs among towering, sculpted icebergs and breathtaking ice floes.
- Good-sized and very stable ship for comfortable sea crossings (ships that are too small take considerably longer and generally give a rougher ride).
- Spend maximum time ashore.
- Fabulous photographic and video opportunities, with special tuition and workshops.
